If the Secretary does not renew such a certification, the Secretary may not continue to detain the alien under subparagraph (C)(ii).

“(ii) DELEGATION.—Notwithstanding section 103, the Secretary of Homeland Security may not delegate the authority to make or renew a certification described in subclause (II), (III), or (V) of subparagraph (C)(ii) to an official below the level of the Assistant Secretary for Immigration and Customs Enforcement.

“(ii) the alien has not been lawfully admitted into the United States; and “(iii) the alien has not been physically present in the United States continuously for the 2-year period immediately prior to the commencement of removal proceedings under this Act or deportation proceedings against the alien.

“(9) JUDICIAL REVIEW.—Without regard to the place of confinement, judicial review of any action or decision pursuant to paragraph (6), (7), or (8) shall be available exclusively in a habeas corpus proceeding instituted in the United States District Court for the District of Columbia, and only if the alien has exhausted all administrative remedies (statutory and regulatory) available to the alien as of right.”

(3) APPLICABILITY.—Paragraphs (1) and (2) shall not apply to an order granting prospective relief that was entered before the date of the enactment of this Act if the prospective relief granted by such order was necessary to remedy the violation of a right guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States.

States, the court shall not enter, approve, or continue a consent decree unless it complies with the requirements of subsection (b).

(2) PRIVATE SETTLEMENT AGREEMENTS.—Nothing in this section shall preclude parties from entering into a private settlement agreement that does not comply with the requirements of subsection (b).

(f) DEFINITIONS.—In this section:

(1) CONSENT DECREE.—The term “consent decree” means any relief entered by the court that is based in whole or in part on the consent or acquiescence of the parties, but does not include private settlement agreements.

(2) GOOD CAUSE.—The term “good cause” does not include discovery or congestion of the court’s calendar.

(3) GOVERNMENT.—The term “Government” means the United States, any Federal department or agency, or any Federal agent or official acting within the scope of official duties.

(4) PERMANENT RELIEF.—The term “permanent relief” means relief issued in connection with a final decision of a court.

(5) PRIVATE SETTLEMENT AGREEMENT.—The term “private settlement agreement” means an agreement entered into by the parties that is not subject to judicial enforcement other than the reinstatement of the civil action of the claim resolved by such agreement.

Mr. CORNYN submitted an amendment intended to be proposed by him to the bill S. 372, to authorize appropriations for fiscal year 2007 for the intelligence and intelligence-related activities of the United States Government, the Intelligence Community Management Account, and the Central Intelligence Agency Retirement and Disability System, and for other purposes; which was ordered to lie on the table; as follows:

At the end of title V, add the following:

SEC. ____ SENSE OF THE SENATE REGARDING LEADERS OF CONGRESS ENGAGING IN DIPLOMACY WITH STATE SPONSORS OF TERRORISM.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress makes the following findings:

(1) The Secretary of State has designated certain countries that have repeatedly provided support for international acts of terrorism as state sponsors of terrorism.

(2) State sponsors of terrorism provide critical support to non-state terrorist groups.

(3) Without state sponsors, terrorist groups would have much more difficulty obtaining the funds, weapons, materials, and secure areas they require to plan and conduct operations.

(4) United States policy seeks to pressure and isolate state sponsors of terrorism so they will renounce the use of terrorism, end support to terrorists, and bring terrorists to justice for past crimes.

(5) Syria remains a designated state sponsor of terrorism, having first been designated as such on December 29, 1979.

(6) Iran remains a designated state sponsor of terrorism, having first been designated as such on January 19, 1984.

(7) The Secretary of State determined in 2006 that Syria and Iran continue to “routinely provide unique safe haven, substantial resources and guidance to terrorist organizations”.

(8) Senators themselves have historically recognized the constitutional principle that the foreign affairs power resides exclusively in the Executive Branch. For example, Senator J. William Fulbright, former Chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations of the Senate explained in a speech at Cornell Law School in 1959, “[t]he pre-eminent responsibility of the President for the formulation and conduct of American foreign policy is clear and unalterable.... He possesses sole authority to communicate and negotiate with foreign powers.” (published as J. William Fulbright, “American Foreign Policy in the 20th-Century Under an 18th-Century Constitution”, 47 Cornell Law Quarterly 1, 3 (1961)).

(9) The Supreme Court similarly recognized the “very delicate, plenary and exclusive power of the President as the sole organ of the Federal Government in the field of international relations” in the United States versus Curtiss-Wright Export Corporation (299 U.S. 304, 319 (1936)).

(b) SENSE OF THE SENATE.—It is the sense of the Senate that leaders of Congress should not engage in diplomacy with state sponsors of terrorism over the expressed objections of officials of the Executive Branch, as the Executive Branch has the exclusively responsibility for foreign affairs matters under the Constitution.

(2) James Madison wrote in Federalist No. 47 that Charles de Montesquieu was "[t]he oracle who is always consulted and cited" on issues dealing with separation of powers, and, in "The Spirit of the Laws", Montesquieu defined the executive power "in respect to things dependent on the law of nations" and as the power by which the "magistrate . . . makes peace or war, sends or receives embassies, establishes the public security, and provides against invasions".

(3) In a speech to Congress in 1789, James Madison noted that the "association of the Senate with the President in exercising [the appointment] function, is an exception to this general rule [that executive power is vested solely in the President]; and exceptions to general rules . . . are ever to be taken strictly".

(4) In 1790, Thomas Jefferson wrote, "The transaction of business with foreign nations is executive altogether. It belongs, then, to the head of that department, except as to such portions of it as are specially submitted to the Senate. Exceptions are to be construed strictly."

(5) Alexander Hamilton reaffirmed this view in 1793, asserting "that as the participation of the Senate in the making of treaties, and the power of the legislature to declare war, are exceptions out of the general 'executive power' vested in the President, they are to be construed strictly, and ought to be extended no further than is essential to their execution".

(6) John Marshall, during his congressional term in 1799, reaffirmed that the President was "the sole organ of the nation in its external relations" because "[h]e possesses the whole Executive Power".

(7) In 1936, the Supreme Court, in United States v. Curtiss-Wright Export Corporation, 299 U.S. 304, stated, "Not only, as we have shown, is the federal power over external affairs in origin and essential character different from that over internal affairs, but participation in the exercise of the power is significantly limited. In this vast external realm, with its important, complicated, delicate and manifold problems, the President alone has the power to speak or listen as a representative of the nation. He makes treaties with the advice and consent of the Senate; but he alone negotiates. Into the field of negotiation the Senate cannot intrude, and Congress itself is powerless to invade it."

(8) Section 953 of title 18, United States Code, originally enacted in 1799 as the Logan Act (1 Stat. 613), states, "Any citizen of the United States, wherever he may be, who, without authority of the United States, directly or indirectly commences or carries on any correspondence or intercourse with any foreign government or any officer or agent thereof, with intent to influence the measures or conduct of any foreign government or of any officer or agent thereof, in relation to any disputes or controversies with the United States, or to defeat the measures of the United States, shall be fined under this title or imprisoned not more than three years, or both. This section shall not abridge the right of a citizen to apply himself, or his agent, to any foreign government, or the agents thereof, for redress of any injury which he may have sustained from such government or any of its agents or subjects."

(9) In 1952, Senator Arthur Vandenberg asserted that "politics stop at the water's edge".

(10) Intrusions on the executive power of the President by Members of Congress have had negative effects on foreign policy, and, in the past, some Members of Congress have tried to subvert the goals and aims of the executive branch by pursuing foreign policy goals that are contrary to those of the President.

(11) In 1987 and 1988, Speaker of the House Jim Wright attempted to engage in diplomacy between the Sandinista Government of Nicaragua and the Contra regime against the expressed aims of President Ronald Reagan. Speaker Wright's actions undermined the authority and leveraging power of the President at a crucial time in the Nation's history and also ignored the finding of the Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence of the House of Representatives that the Government of Nicaragua was planning to use military force against coterminous states.

(12) In 1980, Representative Charlie Wilson began urging the Central Intelligence Agency to arm Afghani mujahideen fighters. The decision to double funding to Afghanistan was unsolicited and was made without the knowledge of the President. The book "Charlie Wilson's War", written by George Crile, asserts that Representative Wilson thus violated the Logan Act.

(13) In 1983, the decision of Congress to attach a stipulation to legislation authorizing the extension of the presence of the Marines in Beirut, which stated that the extension could be withdrawn if fatalities continued, possibly led to the suicide bombing of the Marine barracks on October 23, 1983, causing the deaths of 241 members of the Armed Forces of the United States.

(14) It is essential that the President alone have the ability to formulate foreign policy and engage in diplomacy.

(15) The offices of the Speaker of the House of Representatives and the Majority Leader of the Senate are positions of special responsibility, seen as "authoritative" by foreign governments, and thus, the Speaker of the House and the Majority Leader of the Senate should be held accountable for actions that may be seen by foreign governments as contrary to the foreign policy goals of the President.

(16) Recent actions by Speaker of the House Nancy Pelosi, whether intentionally or unintentionally, have undermined the President's foreign policy toward Syria by giving a false impression of the positions of the United States and Israel on negotiations with the Government of Syria.

(17) It is essential that Members of Congress be viewed as supportive of the President's execution of foreign policy.

(18) It is harmful and dangerous for the executive power of the President to be subjugated by Congress.

(b) SENSE OF CONGRESS.—It is the sense of Congress that—

(1) it is not in the interests of the United States for Members of Congress to intervene in disputes between the United States Government and governments of foreign countries without the authorization of the President; and

(2) Members of Congress should heed the foreign policies of the President while traveling outside the United States and meeting with foreign governments.

At the end, insert the following:

SEC. ____ SENSE OF CONGRESS REGARDING PRESIDENTIAL AUTHORITY TO CONTROL FOREIGN POLICY.

(a) FINDINGS.—Congress finds the following:

(1) Article II, section 1 of the Constitution of the United States grants "executive Power" to the President of the United States.

(2) James Madison wrote in Federalist No. 47 that Charles de Montesquieu was "[t]he oracle who is always consulted and cited" on issues dealing with separation of powers, and, in "The Spirit of the Laws", Montesquieu defined the executive power "in respect to things dependent on the law of nations" and as the power by which the "magistrate . . . makes peace or war, sends or receives embassies, establishes the public security, and provides against invasions".
